About the Journals

Henry Stewart Publications is the leading publisher of vocational, peer-reviewed journals that support graduate employability and executive education.

Guided by distinguished Editorial Boards, the journals combine case studies and vocational articles from senior executives with applied research from leading experts and scholars in their field in three collections:

- Marketing & Digital
- Banking & Finance
- Management & Real Estate

Available online, in print or both - as you prefer - the journal collections now total circa 7,000 original, peer-reviewed case studies, best practice papers and research studies, increasing with each new issue of the journals, approaching 1,000 additions each year.

Authoritative Peer-Reviewed Content

Each quarterly journal is guided by a distinguished Editorial Board, consisting of prominent scholars and leading practitioners and experts in the field who peer-review all submissions to ensure the content is authoritative, relevant and of value to readers.

Supporting Teaching & Learning

Students need to learn key skills; they want engaging teaching - both intellectually and practically; and they are looking for degrees which will help them get jobs and develop their careers.
